The Outlook

One positive statement may be made about the Los Angeles Rams' upcoming record as compared to their 1959 performance.

There's no place to go but up.

Assuming defending champion Baltimore and the Chicago Bears, who finished just one game off the pace in second place, will again be the strong teams in the Western Division, an ambitious jump for the Rams would seem to be a third or fourth place finish as they start the long climb back from the cellar to the top.

Such an achievement would be particularly noteworthy since it will be under the direction of a completely new coaching staff headed by Bob Waterfield, the most famous of all former Ram players. Last January Bob signed a five year pact to coach the Rams after Sid Gillman retired at the conclusion of the 1959 season. As his assistants, Waterfield has named an entire staff of former NFL star players.

Any guarded enthusiasm concerning the Rams in 1960 is predicated on a combination of Waterfield's leadership qualities, amply displayed in his nine year career with the Rams, and the suspicion that despite the club's poor showing last year, there is a strong nucleus of talent available to spearhead a stronger and more productive campaign.

Let us, then, take a more detailed look at the squad which will carry the Ram banner in the fall of 1960.

RETURNING VETERANS: Numerically fine with a total of 34 seasoned men reporting to training camp.

LOSSES: Somewhat indicative of the over-all youthfulness of the Ram squad is the fact that no retirements because of age have been indicated. There were trades, however.

TRADES: A total of eight 1959 squad members will be performing for other clubs this year, but the numerical loss actually is only five. In a straight player-for-player trade, the Rams gave up center John Morrow to the Cleveland Browns for Art Hunter who played the same position for the Eastern Division team. In the league-wide plan to stock the new Dallas franchise with 36 veterans, the Rams sold offensive guard and co-captain Duane Putnam, offensive tackle Bob Fry and defensive back Tom Franckhauser to the Cowboys. And veteran guard Al Barry of the New York Giants (via Dallas) was obtained in return for the contract of Hugh Pitts, reserve list linebacker. End Leon Clarke was swapped to Cleveland for end Bob Long. Guards Roy Wilkins and John Houser and tackle Gene Selawski were traded for future draft choices.

Also traded was Sam Williams, a two-way end who went to Detroit in order for the Rams to acquire Jim David for coaching duties.

TEAM AGE: Average age of 34 veterans in Ram camp is less than 26. Addition of rookies this year will drop average below 25.

PROMISING ROOKIES: Following the 1958 season, the Rams drafted the first "future" ever selected on the first round of the annual NFL draft. He is the highly touted Dick Bass, of College of the Pacific, who comes to this year's camp as a rookie with top potential, either on

The Squad

OFFENSIVE END: Cut from the same mold that produced an Elroy Hirsch-Tom Fears combination is the young Ram pair of Del Shofner and Jim "Red" Phillips. Rival press and players throughout the NFL have hailed these two as a fine a pair as there is in the league.

Shofner earned all-pro honors last year by 47 receptions, 936 yards and 15 touchdowns. Dangerous even when well-covered, he's among the most exciting players in Ram history.

Underrated but not unappreciated are Phillips' abilities. His 72 receptions during the past two seasons include one for 93 yards, longest in the club's record book.

Top rookie prospect is Carroll Dale, who, after the trade of Leon Clarke to Cleveland, becomes an important reserve. He's the VIP from VPI.

DEFENSIVE END: Gene Brito, who went six years without missing a game at Washington, broke his ankle in the Rams' second league game last year. He's back now and in top shape. With Lamar Lundy at the opposite end, the Rams are strong in this spot. John Baker, big and versatile, is capable of filling in in case of an injury.

OFFENSIVE TACKLE: Lou Michaels, great as a rookie at defensive end in 1958 and strong at defensive end and tackle in 1959, has been shifted to offensive tackle and on his adjustment to this spot depends the strength here. Paul Dickson, Gene Selawski and rookies Jim Boeke and Mike Connelly will fight it out for other spot.

DEFENSIVE TACKLE: John LoVetere, 1959's rookie of the year, is bigger and better than ever and, teamed with George Strugar, gives the Rams a journeyman pair of tackles. John Baker again will provide the reserve power.

OFFENSIVE GUARD: Well set on one side with Alex (Buck) Lansford, considered the best in the west at applying a downfield cruncher, the Rams still must find a running mate. Top candidate may be Roy Wilkins, rugged and speedy, who has been converted after two years of linebacking duty. Rivaling Wilkins will be four-year NFL veteran Al Barry, obtained in trade from the Giants, and Joe Houser, journeyman performer who was a sometimes starter in 1959. Rookies here include Charlie Janerette from Penn State, and Mike Connelly from Utah State and Roy Hord. Gone is eight-year veteran Duane Putnam.

CENTER: In a straight player-for-player trade, the Rams sent 1959 center John Morrow to Cleveland in return for Southern California resident Art Hunter, long regarded as one of the top blocking centers in the Eastern Division.

LINEBACKERS: Venerable but not vulnerable is veteran Les Richter who anchors a kiddie corps of linebackers that includes Bill Jobko, Jack Pardee and John Guzik. Also making a strong bid to win a job is Jerry Stalcup, co-captain of Wisconsin's Rose Bowl team.

QUARTERBACKS: Coach Bob Waterfield announced a three-way fight for the starting job here and he was right. Bill Wade, who set records in 1958, then shared duties with sophomore pro Frank Ryan last season, now must contend with another ambitious youngster, Buddy Humphrey. Humphrey's exhibition performances stamp him as a strong candidate.

OFFENSIVE HALFBACK: Although they're "down" to only two veteran players at this position, it's unlikely the Ram coaching staff has any great concern about the matter. Not when the pair happens to be Jon Arnett and Tom Wilson.

Wilson, a 204 pounder, is not blessed with sprinter's speed, bue he couples tremendously strong running with an uncanny knack of making tacklers miss. Tom has lugged the ball 304 times for an average of 5.8 yards a carry. In his very first season he set at that time an NFL record by gaining a total of 223 yards in a single game. Wilson's total of 1771 yards ranks him fourth among the all-time Ram ball carriers and by gaining less than 250 yards in 1960 he will vault into the third spot.

Arnett trails Wilson in ground gaining by only 370 yards and with another normal year will move from his present position of ninth best Ram ball carrier of all time to a position of fourth or fifth. One of the league's most versatile backs, Jon is utilized extensively as a receiver and also is employed as a deep back on punt and kick-off returns. His combined yardage in these four categories has been well over 1,000 yards each year and he hit a whopping 1731 yards in 1958.

In reserve is the best rookie halfback prospect, Dick Bass of COP. Dick is 5-10, weighs 195 pounds, and in high school ran a :09.6 century. He probably could not turn in that same performance today, but he definitely falls in the general category of "fast." Indeed, fast enough to win the "Triple Crown" of football in 1958 when he led the nation in rushing, scoring and total offense, the first time one man won all three since "Whizzer" White did it in 1937.

Clendon Thomas, defensive back last year may see halfback action on offense from a new slotback spot.

DEFENSIVE HALFBACK: Unquestionably the weak spot of the 1959 Rams squad and a department which will have to be improved.

As a starting point, new defensive backfield coach Jim David will have five men returning who performed last season at the four deep back positions including safteymen Will Sherman, Don Burroughs and Jack Morris, plus Eddie Meador and Carl Karilivacz.

Meador as a rookie last year probably was the outstanding man in the group and will likely be a regular.

Injuries kept both Sherman and Burroughs on the bench for several games.

There's a good chance that rookies will figure prominently in Waterfield's plans.

Best of this group would seem to be Georgia's Charlie Britt, who was named by the coaches of the Southeastern conference as that league's best defensive back. Another good prospect is Don Ellersick, a 190 pounder from Washington State who turned in fine performances in both the East-West and Senior Bowl games.

FULLBACKS: Ollie Matson, obtained last year from the Cardinals in the now-famous "9-for-1" trade, and Joe Marconi are the seasoned tandem that figure to carry the load again this year. Matson gained 863 yards last year, third highest by a fullback in Ram History and also third best among all backs in the league.

BOB WATERFIELD

Head Coach

Bob Waterfield is back, but those who have been close to him through the last seven years will tell you that he really never has been away. Technically, only in 1958, when he served part time as an assistant coach in charge of quarterbacks, has Waterfield been officially connected with the Rams since he retired as the team's number one quarterback following the 1952 season.

Throughout his retirement, which now ends with the beginning of a five year head coach pact, Waterfield has lived and died with the Rams. He has served as the head of a motion picture company, has invested wisely in several fields, has co-owned and co-managed a restaurant . . . but mostly Waterfield has kept alive and active a mental and emotional association with the team for which he starred for eight years.

Waterfield, a native of New York State, settled in Van Nuys, California, at a pre-grammar school age. (His father, a baseball pitcher, died when Bob was small. His mother still lives in the family home in Van Nuys.) As a youngster, he became fascinated with football, and, with basketball and gymnastics as successful but secondary interests, Bob was a grid star at Van Nuys High School.

After a season's delay to build a late-maturing physique into his present ideal football size (6-2 and 200), Waterfield entered UCLA, and played on the varsity in 1941, 1942 and 1944. (He entered the army in 1943, and, as Lt. Waterfield, played at Fort Benning, Georgia, that football season, before being discharged from the service because of an injury.)

As an all-coast and second team All-American in 1942, Waterfield led UCLA to its first Rose Bowl appearance, and in losing to Georgia, 9-0, UCLA faced one of the south's all-time top elevens, featuring All-Americans Charlie Trippi, Frank Sinkwich and George Poschner.

Since Waterfield's original registration class at UCLA was to graduate in June of 1944, Bob was eligible for the NFL player draft which was held on April 19, 1944. With many Ram office personnel serving in the armed forces, Bob Kelley, as acting club secretary, was in charge of the Ram participation in the draft. Noticing a letter of recommendation from the late Jeff Cravath, coach at the University of Southern California, praising his cross-town rival's quarterback, Kelley investigated Waterfield and selected him as a "future" on the third round.

Following his senior season (1944), Waterfield played in the East-West Shrine game in San Francisco on January 1, 1945. In his team's 13-6 win over the East, Waterfield's running and passing led to both touchdowns. He averaged 6.7 yards from scrimmage as a ball carrier, running for the winning TD himself. He completed eleven passes, and his punting was, as one writer termed it, "unbelievable." His five punts were reported this way, with the statistics official:

1) Ball on own 14. Quick-kicked. East safety-man Les Horvath chased the ball down on his own 6, returning it to the 10. Net: 80 yards.

2) Ball on own 30. Quick-kicked dead on East's 10. Net: 60 yards.

3) Ball on East 46. Kicked for coffin corner. Ball rolled dead on East 4. Net: 42 yards.

4) Ball on own 17. Kicked over Horvath's head. Ball downed on East 9. Net: 74 yards.

5) Ball on own 33. Kicked to opponents' 26. Net: 41 yards.

Average for five punts: 59.4 yards! !

Waterfield's punting that day is still considered one of the most incredible of all individual football performances. Needless to say, Waterfield was acclaimed the greatest performer in the history of the East-West game.

When Waterfield joined the Cleveland Rams prior to the 1945 season, he had the spotlight on him, and he glowed well in it. That year, a Ram assistant coach was Bob Snyder, recognized as a master technician of quarterback play in the Shaughnessey, Halas and Leahy T-formations, and, himself, the man who developed Sid Luckman for George Halas' Bears and Johnny Lujack for Frank Leahy's Notre Dame Irish. Snyder also was a place-kicking specialist. Finding the natural talent in abundance in Waterfield, Snyder made Bob his special pupil in both phases of the game.

Waterfield that year led the Rams not only to their first winning season in history, but to a divisional title and to a thrilling one-point win over the Washington Redskins for the world championship. Bob became the first man ever to receive a unanimous vote as the NFL's Most Valuable Player. With Jim Benton as his main target, Waterfield's passes broke many records, and his six touchdowns the first nine times he tried his bootleg play (on which he carried the hidden ball deceptively away from the flow of the play) during the pre-season and league games brought him national fame and gave pro football a significant post-war boost.

The Rams moved to Los Angeles after the '45 season ended, and, in the years to come, Waterfield became "Mr. Ram." His passing, place-kicking and punting were hailed in stories and stats, but it was his quiet leadership on the field which won for him the respect of all of pro football . . . and which also played a large part in bringing the Rams three consecutive divisional crowns (1949, 1950, 1951), a tie for a fourth (1952), and a world title (1951).

Bob retired after the 1952 season.

Waterfield, his wife (screen star Jane Russell, whom he began dating when she was still a Van Nuys High School student), and their three (adopted) children live in Sherman Oaks, in a home which Bob and Jane designed and built following the 1945 football season.

HAMP POOL Offense and Offensive Backs

In 1950 and 1951, Pool was a Ram assistant coach on offense, and the Ram teams of those years set a record number of team and NFL marks. With this in mind, Waterfield has selected him to work with the offense and offensive backs. Hamp was an All-Coast fullback at Stanford and a top-rated NFL end with the Chicago Bears. In fourteen of the last sixteen seasons, he has coached, including head mentor assignments in the Navy, in the All-American Conference, with the Rams (1952-1954) and at Toronto.

TOM FEARS Offensive Ends

If a football coach is supposed to be accomplished at the techniques he teaches, then the Rams are well set. Particularly apt is Tom Fears, who, as a receiver par excellence for nine Ram years, ranks below only Don Hutson in the number of career receptions. Both the Ram and NFL statistical charts feature his name prominently. Not shown in the record books is the ex-UCLAn's uncanny ability to get open and to run through traffic with the football. Tom worked with the Packer's end last year, developing "Rookie-of-the-Year" Boyd Dowler.

JIM DAVID Defensive Backfield

After holding his own against the Goliaths of the NFL for eight years, David was Waterfield's first choice to coach his defensive backs. At 5-10 and perhaps 180 when soaking wet, Jim offset his lack of size with pure aggressiveness for Detroit. The former Colorado State star, if he gets his men to play with the same desire he displayed, will go a long way to offset the injury-triggered collapse of last year's Ram secondary.

DON PAUL Defensive Line

Co-owner of what is fast becoming a chain of successful restaurants, Don Paul has found it impossible to put full time to those lucrative enterprises when there are football players to be coached. When he retired as an All-Pro linebacker and Ram captain in 1955, Don sat out one football year. In 1957 and 1958, he served as line coach for the College All-Stars in their annual game in Chicago, and in 1959 he became Ram defensive line coach.

VIC LINDSKOG Offensive Line

When Waterfield was seeking an NFL experienced staff of assistants, Vic Lindskog was a natural. With eight years as a center with the then top-rated Philadelphia Eagles and a coach there for another three seasons, Lindskog knows what it's like to play on championship teams. This was true even in college. At Stanford he had played on a winner of ten straight season games and a Rose Bowl win over Nebraska. The Vancouver Lions and Bakersfield College rounded out the all-time All-Pro's pre-Ram coaching career.

EDDIE KOTAL Director of Player Scouting

Eddie Kotal has been connected with the club since 1946. He attended the University of Illinois in 1921 and then switched to Lawrence College. Kotal joined Green Bay as a halfback in 1925 and played for five years, being a member of the Packer's first world championship team in 1929.

Eddie was head coach at Lawrence in 1930 and Wisconsin State Teachers from 1932 to 1942. He was backfield coach and head scout for the Packers from 1943 to 1946.

PRO: Developing into one of the top defensive tackles in the league, Strugar has shown great improvement since he was drafted on third round by Rams following 1956 season at Washington . . . he's one of Rams best pass rushers, rugged and blessed with good speed for big man . . . moved into starting lineup last season when Frank Fuller was traded.

SCHOOL: Strugar had great senior season at Washington . . . was named to College All-Star squad and played in East-West Shrine game after graduation . . . also earned All-Coast honors and basketball letters at Washington.

PERSONAL: Born April 2, 1934 . . . single . . . one of most talented members of Rams' off-season basketball squad.

Thomas, Clendon — Offensive Halfback — Oklahoma

Height: 6-2 Weight: 191 Age: 23 Third Year

PRO: Clendon's pro experience has seen him shifted from offense to defense several times . . . this season he is expected to be used primarily with offensive unit as slotback . . . a second-round draft choice, he played very little with Rams in 1958 because of fractured ankle received in College All-Star game . . . saw late-season action at a defensive halfback spot and also played that post in 1959 before suffering broken ribs which sidelined him . . . played briefly on offense in late stages of season . . . speed and shiftiness should make him natural for slotback job.

SCHOOL: Synonymous with Oklahoma's smashing 1957 football success was name of Clendon Thomas . . . set school records in touchdowns (36) and yards gained (2,122) . . . then, as now, he was equally at home on defense, picking off passes and supporting against runs brilliantly . . . also handled punting, punt and kickoff returns for Sooners . . . averaged fantastic 24.5 yards per return on punts in 1957.

PERSONAL: Born in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, on Dec. 28, 1935 . . . Clendon holds pilot license, plays golf and is a leader in National Fellowship of Christian Athletes program . . . single

Villanueva, Danny — Kicker — New Mexico State

Height: 5:11 Weight: 200 Age: 23 First Year

SCHOOL: Signed as free agent . . . Played for Reedley College in 1957 . . . transferred to New Mexico State for his sophomore year and lettered as a quarterback, but achieved most fame as a kicking specialist . . . made good on seven of eight field goal attempts, ranging from 19 to 47 yards, the latter against New Mexico U. for what is believed to be a new Border Conference record . . . also a top punter . . . head coach Waterfield feels that he has excellent potential.

PERSONAL: Born in Tucumcari, New Mexico, on November 5, 1937 . . . the tenth of 12 children, of which seven are boys . . . Primo, the oldest, was a star single wing tailback at UCLA in the mid-fifties and is now a quarterback for Vancouver in the Canadian League . . . married to the former Myrna Schmidt and they have one child, Danny Lee . . . majoring in English and hopes to finish up work for a teaching credential . . . editor of school newspaper and a B-plus student . . . followed in older brothers' footsteps by starring in three sports at Calexico High—football, basketball (forward), and baseball (second baseman).

Wade, Bill Quarterback Vanderbilt

Height: 6-2 Weight: 203 Age: 30 Seventh Year

PRO: Selected as bonus draft choice in 1952. After serving a Navy tour of duty, Bill joined the Rams prior to the 1954 season . . . served an apprenticeship that year under Norm Van Brocklin . . . at the end of his first season, he had gained 509 yards passing, 190 rushing (a record for Ram QBs), and his 6.8 rushing average led Ram runners . . . again in Van Brocklin's shadow in '55, Wade alternated starting assignments in '56 and wound up as the NFL's no. 2 passer . . . understudied Van Brocklin again in '57, then took starting job exclusively in '58 when the Dutchman retired and then was traded to Philadelphia . . . Wade came within 63 yards of matching Sammy Baugh's NFL record for yards gained passing in a single season . . . set a number of club records — attempts (341), completions (181), yardage (2875), longest gainer (93 yards) . . . ranked fourth in league . . . tied for first in NFL with 58.6% completion average . . . (ranked fifth in league last year with 53.2% percentage) . . . in 1959 completed 153 out of 261 passes for 2001 yards.

SCHOOL: The son of Chancellor W. J. Wade, Sr., the captain of Vanderbilt's first undefeated football team in 1921, Bill followed in his dad's footsteps by enrolling at the same school in September, 1948 . . . he was the star tailback in the Vandy frosh single-wing . . . just before the start of his sophomore season (1949), LOOK magazine placed his picture on its cover and the resultant publicity gave him a nationwide role to measure up to . . . after a shaky '49 season learning the T-formation, Bill developed into one of the nation's top passers in 1950 and 1951 . . . his 16 for 24 completions, gaining 251 yards and setting up four Vanderbilt TD's, sparked a 35-27 upset of a nationally top-ranked Tennessee team in his last collegiate performance . . . Bill's total offense figure of 1646 yards in 1951 was third in the nation . . . he won honors on the AP All-American second team, unanimous All-SEC, All-South, named "Most Valuable Player," SEC . . . played in the North-South, Senior Bowl, and College All-Star games . . . in three seasons he completed 201 of 437 passes for 3397 yards, 31 TD's and had 34 intercepted.

PERSONAL: Born in Nashville, Tennessee, on October 4, 1930 . . . likes to be called Bill—not "Billy" . . . majored in Business Administration at Vanderbilt and spends much of his off-season time in the freight business in Nashville . . . also doubles as TV sportscaster . . . served as Lt. (jg) in Navy in 1952-53 . . . met his wife, the former Sharon Townsend, at Coronado Naval Base when the two posed for publicity pictures . . . they now have three children, Bill III (4), Don (3), and Lisa (1½) . . . outstanding baseball pitching prospect and might have had a bonus contract had he not concentrated solely on football . . . struck out 21 batters once in a seven-inning game in high school . . . great prep single-wing tailback at Montgomery Bell Academy in Nashville . . . played all positions in basketball, pitcher, shortstop, and center field in baseball.

(*) Ram Record

Wilson, Tom — Offensive Halfback — No College

Height: 6-0 Weight: 204 Age: 27 Fifth Year

PRO: Signed as a free agent while playing football for Shaw Air Force Base . . . Set an NFL record, since broken, in his rookie year by gaining 223 yards in a single game against Green Bay . . . carried the ball 23 times during game for thumping average of 9.7 per carry . . . led league in kick-offs in same year, taking one back for 103 yards, still a Ram all-time high . . . has gained a total of 1771 yards in his first four seasons with the Rams to rank fourth on the all-time list of Ram ground gainers . . . although Wilson could not be labeled as a back with sprinter's speed, he is considerably above average in this department and has an uncanny knack of breaking tackles . . . has, and will continue to team with Jon Arnett at the left halfback post.

SCHOOL: Wilson attended Hillside High School in Durham, N.C., but did not go on to college . . . while in high school, Tom lettered in football, basketball and baseball, winning All State honors in the first two . . . his first football award was as an All-State tackle . . . played on the same school baseball team as Wes Covington, and like Wes, signed a Milwaukee contract, playing one year for the Brave organization as a catcher for Eau Claire in the Wisconsin State League . . . entered the Air Force in 1952 and played three years of football at two different bases, scoring a total of 44 touchdowns . . . discovered and signed by the Rams while playing service ball.

PERSONAL: Born in Stamford, Conn, on September 1, 1932 . . . has been playing golf since ten years of age . . . won three post golf titles during his indoctrination period at Lackland AFB . . . consistently shoots in the 70s despite using an unorthodox cross handed grip.

The Owners

DANIEL F. REEVES

President

Daniel F. Reeves purchased the Cleveland Rams of the National Football league in 1941 at the age of 28 after competing in athletics at Newman Prep and graduating from Georgetown University.

Shortly after obtaining the Ram franchise, Reeves entered the Army Air Corps and served for three years before his release as a captain in 1945. He saw the Rams of 1945 win the world professional football title and then became the forerunner of major sports' invasion of the Pacific Coast by moving the Rams to Los Angeles in 1946.

Reeves, 48, operates a successful stock brokerage business in Southern California, is married and the father of five daughters and one son

EDWIN W. PAULEY

Edwin W. Pauley, 57, conducts a wide range of well established business enterprises, the most notable of which are oil interests throughout the world. He is a member of the Board of Regents of the University of California and active in civic and political endeavors on a city, state and national level. Raised in Pasadena, Pauley attended Occidental College and University of California, competing in both football and crew. He is married and has three sons and one daughter.

FRED LEVY, JR.

Fred Levy, Jr., a graduate of University of Pennsylvania, was a partner with Reeves in the original purchase of the Ram franchise in 1941. He served as a Colonel in the Air Force during World War II and accompanied the Rams on their move to Southern California in 1946. Born in Louisville, Kentucky on April 8, 1902, Levy operates varied businesses in Los Angeles, principally real estate. He is married and has two daughters.

JAMES "HAL" SELEY

James H. Seley founded the Pacific Processing Co., a vitamin processing plant of which he is president. He is also associated with a number of other business interests, including a stock brokerage, and has a large stable of race horses and his own breeding farm in Hemet, California. Mr. Seley's Trackmaster won the classic Santa Anita Maturity in 1956. Born at Conneaut Lake, Penn., April 19, 1906, he still spends part of the year at a farm he owns in Pennsylvania although he, his wife and son and daughter make their permanent nome in San Marino, California.

The Rams Story--1937-59

1937 On February 13, National Football League grants a Cleveland franchise to Homer Marshman representing a group of local businessmen. Coached by Hugo Bezdek, team wins but one game in first year.

1938 Assistant coach Art Lewis takes over ball club after three losses and team wins three of remaining seven games.

1939 Earl "Dutch" Clark replaces Art Lewis as coach. Lewis remains as assistant. Rams win five, lose five to hit .500 for first time. Parker Hall joins team and is voted League's M.V.P.

1940 Team drops back to 4-6-1 record.

1941 Daniel F. Reeves and Fred Levy, Jr., purchase club in June and hire Billy Evans, former columnist, baseball umpire and general manager of Cleveland Indians, as team's general manager. Team wins first two games, then drops nine to finish in cellar. Evans resigns.

1942 Charles "Chile" Walsh replaces Art Lewis as Assistant Coach and radio announcer Bob Kelley is named club secretary. Lieutenant Reeves and Major Levy depart to join armed forces. Team loses six games while winning five.

1943 Chile Walsh named head coach when Clark resigns, but team is given permission to suspend operations for one season. Levy sells his interest in the Rams to Reeves.

1944 Walsh named General Manager. He in turn appoints Aldo "Buff" Donelli as head coach. Pick-up team wins 4, loses 6.

1945 Donelli joins service prior to beginning of season. Walsh appoints brother Adam as new head coach. George Trafton signs to coach line and Bob Snyder returns to old team as backfield mentor. Bob Waterfield, UCLA rookie, joins squad. Rams have unprecedented season, winning nine while losing one and defeat Washington Redskins by 15-14 score on frozen field to annex world's championship. Waterfield named league's most valuable player. Walsh voted Coach of the Year.

1946 Reeves moves franchise from Cleveland to Los Angeles. Team fails to repeat division title and both Walshes resign. Reeves assumes duties as general manager. Bob Snyder appointed head coach for '47, with Joe Stydahar named as assistant.

1947 Edwin and Harold Pauley along with Fred Levy purchase interests in Rams. Injuries play big part in so-so 6 and 6 record.

1948 Clark Shaughnessy joins staff as advisory coach during winter months. Appointed head coach on September 3 when Snyder resigns. Team wins four of last five games to post season mark of 6-5-1.

1949 Team wins first six games and protects lead to produce first Western Division championship. NFL championship is lost to Philadelphia by 14-0 score in rain at Los Angeles.

1950 NFL and AAC merge. Rams remain as lone pro team in L.A. Stydahar named head coach in February, appointing Mel Hein and Hamp Pool as assistants. Office moves to 7813 Beverly Blvd. Team sets 22 league records, wins conference title over Bears in play-off, but loses to Browns, 30-28, on last minute Groza field goal, for NFL title.

1951 Hein resigns, replaced by Ray Richards. Rams win National Conference championship on final day of league season, then defeat Cleveland 24-17 for team's second world title.

1952 Stydahar resigns after team loses three straight pre-season games and conference opener. Hampton Pool appointed head coach. Rams rally to win last eight league games and climb to divisional tie with Detroit. Lions win play-off. Richards resigns to accept Baltimore post. Pool hires new aides, John Sauer for backfield and Bill Battles for line.

1953 Team compiles 8-3-1 record, losing three games by total of eight points. Although finishing third in Western Division, Rams defeat world champion Lions in two league games. Pool adds assistants Dick Voris and Ralph Weaver to staff. Harold Pauley, one of the club's owners, passes away.

1954 Inconsistent team finishes with 6-5-1 mark, trailing Lions, Bears and 49ers. Entire staff of assistants resigns at close of year and Pool follows suit shortly after.

1955 On January 26, Sid Gillman, University of Cincinnati mentor, hired as head coach after intensive search of coaching ranks by Ram executives. Gillman names Joe Madro, Jack Faulkner, Lowell Storm and Joe Thomas as assistants. Rams, with 8-3-1 record, win conference crown by half game over Bears, but lose league play-off to Cleveland.

1956 Five straight defeats in early season proved club's longest all-time losing streak, and team finishes in cellar tie.

1957 George Allen added to coaching staff. Team loses squeakers on road vs. 49ers and Lions, for season 6 and 6 record, finishing two games behind division leaders.

1958 Lou Rymkus, Bob Waterfield and Bill Swiacki added to revamped coaching staff which includes Faulkner and Madro. Norm Van Brocklin goes to Eagles in pre-season trade and Bill Wade sets many Ram passing records en route to 8-4 record and tie for second place finish.

1959 Multiple injuries, lack of scoring punch, a new low in pass interceptions, fumbles and other misfortunes keynoted a 2-10 record, the Rams' worst season since 1937. Ollie Matson, in first season as Ram following trade with Cards, provides statistical bright spot as ballcarrying workhorse. Gillman and staff end Ram association on final day of season.

1959—"Longest"—Performances

BALL CARRYING

Jon Arnett broke through the line of scrimmage at the Ram 20, picked up downfield blocking, and raced into the end zone for an 80-yard TD run against the Eagles.

FORWARD PASSING

The season's longest pass play came in Baltimore, in the second quarter just after the Colts had taken a 21-0 lead. With the play starting on the Ram 28, Bill Wade passed to Del Shofner on the Colt 30, and the Ram receiver carried it in for a 72-yard TD play.

SCORING

Del Shofner scored seven times on pass plays for 42 points. Next, each with 36 points, were Ollie Matson (six touchdown runs from scrimmage)and Lou Michaels (12 extra points and 8 field goals, including the longest of the Ram season, 40 yards).

1959 Ram Attendance

For the third consecutive year, the Rams, in 1959, played before more spectators than had any other team in a single season in football history. In spite of the worst won-lost record since 1937, the Rams, in 18 games, exceeded the 1958 total attendance (for 19 games) by 7,827. Key individual figures included another sellout at Baltimore, a new pro record at Franklin Field in Philadelphia, and the third highest all-time attendance in the Ram-49er series.

The pre-season home game attendance by far exceeded all previous records, an average of 60,379 attending the five contests. The figures that dipped from 1958 included the League Game attendance (which dropped an average of 1,963 per game), the Home Game attendance (which fell behind by a total figure of only 226), and the Home League Game total (which dropped an average of 9,601 per game).

Outlook

offense or defense. Other rookies with a chance include the All-Star returnees: offensive end Carroll Dale, VPI; tackle Charles Janerette of Penn State; linebacker Jerry Stalcup of last year's Wisconsin Rose Bowl team; and defensive back candidates Charlie Britt of Georgia and Don Ellersick of Washington State.

OFFENSE: In one of the most baffling mysteries in modern football history, the 1959 Ram squad managed to finish second in the NFL in total yardage gained, yet ranked tenth in the league in points scored. They likewise tallied fewer points than any Ram team since 1944.

Points still win football games and the points are bound to come if the 1960 Rams can gain ground like their immediate predecessors, and at the same time cut down substantially on their mistakes. It could be the major factor in upgrading their final won-loss record.

DEFENSE: In another inexplicable performance, the same basic pass defense unit which nabbed 28 enemy aerials in 1958 and returned them for 490 yards and five touchdowns, was able to intercept a total of only seven passes in 1959 and carried those back for the grand total of five yards.

1959 Games

At Baltimore: Colt drives and a Ram fumble made it 14-0, Colts. Unitas' 56-yard pass to Berry made it 21-0, but on the next play Wade passed to Shofner 72 yards (21-7, Colts). Ameche scored (28-7, Colts) and then a Wade-Clarke 60-yard pass led to a Wade rollout TD for a halftime score of 28-14, Colts. In the third quarter, Wade's passes to Lundy, Shofner and Wilson made it 28-21, Colts, but Moore's 17-yard pass-run TD ended the scoring. Final: 35-21, Colts.

At Los Angeles: In a battle bitter until the closing moments, Lou Michaels' four FGs and strong running by Marconi and Arnett matched pace with Unitas and company through three quarters (26-24, Rams), but in the final period Unitas passed to an earned TD and then the Colts defense scored twice on an interception and a 99-yard TD return (Taseff) of a FG attempt to make the final: 45-26, Colts.

At Chicago: Scoring opened when Matson, tackled, lateraled to Wade, who passed to Phillips for TD. Johnny Morris returned Shofner punt 78 yards for TD (7-7). Brown passed to Hill for 88-yard scorer, a Bear record (14-7, Bears). The Rams came back on Matson 32-yard run and Wade-Phillips 39-yard TD pass (14-14). A Brown-Dewveall 43-yard pass ended first half scoring (21-14, Bears). Jobko recovered Galimore fumble and Wade passed to Shofner 45 yards (21-21). Ryan engineered 63-yard drive, highlighting Marconi's running, to a winning TD (28-21, Rams). Matson gained 199 yards.

At Los Angeles: Passes, Wade-Shofner (50 yards) and Bratkowski-Taylor (29 yards) comprised first half scoring. Bishop blocked third quarter Shofner punt, leading to Bear TD (14-7, Bears). Larry Morris ran Ram fumble to TD, (20-7, Bears). Ryan engineered a 45-yard scoring drive (20-14, Bears). Brown to Casares pass gave Bears 26-14 lead. A 60-yard run by Wilson, and Ryan-Arnett 38-yard pass ended scoring (26-21, Bears).

1959 Game

At Los Angeles (Pre-Season): After returning the opening kickoff to their own five, the Rams put the ball in play from scrimmage on eighteen consecutive plays and yet gained a net of only 20 yards (Ram penalties causing the fluke situation). Finally when the Rams punted, Cleveland took over and moved 44 yards to a score in 3 plays, including Jim Brown's 30-yard TD run (7-0, Browns). In the second quarter, the Rams drove 80 yards in five plays (with Wade passing to Shofner and Phillips for 69 yards) to tie it at 7-7. The Browns came right back to score from 75 yards away on a drive keyed by Plum-Carpenter passes, accounting for 52 yards (14-7, Browns). With 19 seconds remaining before halftime, Groza's 17 yard field goal for Cleveland made it 17-7, Browns.

Plum's passes led to an opening TD for the Browns after intermission, but a 77-yard march led by Bill Wade's passes made it 24-14, Browns. In the final period, Jack Morris and Lou Groza exchanged medium-length field goals, and then Wade's sharpshooting on another 80-yard drive gave Shofner a final TD to end the scoring at 27-24, Browns.

About the Cowboys

This will be the first NFL entry for Dallas since 1952, when, for a single season, that city was represented. On that occasion, George Taliaferro, Buddy Young, Dick Hoerner and company had a 1-11-0 record as a Western Division team.

The 1960 franchise, as a thirteenth team, will be carried in the Western Division standings, but is meeting each other team in the loop once.

A special "draft" of players from other franchises was held last winter, with each team listing eleven "available" men from the previous year's roster. From each list Dallas chose three men to form a nucleus of NFL-experienced veterans. In addition, the loop awarded Dallas the draft rights to Don Meredith, generally acclaimed as one of the top collegiate passers of the last decade. Since Meredith was a local hero at SMU, he is a natural choice to lead the Dallas rookies in battles for jobs.

Cowboy Head Coach Tom Landry, former New York Giant quarterback, defensive halfback and later defensive coach, has former NFL players Babe Dimancheff, Brad Ecklund and Tom Dahms as his assistant coaches.

An unusual break in the scheduling finds Dallas playing five of the six eastern division clubs at the outset, and these are teams with which Landry is much more familiar, having been with the Giants for many consecutive years.

Former Rams with the Dallas organization include General Manager Tex Schramm, Box Office Treasurer Kay (Lang) Dunn and players Duane Putnam, Bob Fry and Tom Franckhauser.

At Los Angeles: Scoring started with Martin's 37-yard field goal (3-0, Lions). Arnett ran kickoff 101 yards, but was called back. Wade key-noted scoring drive of 89-yards (7-3, Rams). Lions recovered Ram fumble and converted to TD. Clincher, on 26-yard drive, followed Lowe interception of Wade pass (17-7, Lions).

At Detroit: Morrall-Middleton 79-yard pass opened scoring (7-0, Lions). Martin kicked a 41-yard field goal (10-0, Lions). Ryan's passing and running keyed 79-yard drive to the Lion one. Matson scored (10-7, Lions). Michaels and Martin kicked field goals (13-10, Lions). Lions recovered Ram fumble on Ram 23, and scored (20-10, Lions). In fourth period, Perry kicked 15-yard three-pointer, (23-10, Lions) and 67-yard pass, Ryan to Shofner, ended the scoring, (23-17, Lions).

1959 Games

At Milwaukee: Williams blocked Packer punt for safety (2-0, Rams). Morris kicked 22-yard field goal (5-0, Rams). Wade-Shofner 26-yard pass, with bad snap on PAT, (11-0, Rams). Field goals by Hornung (14, 46 yds.) and Morris (17 yds.) completed the half, (14-6, Rams). Matson's 49-yard run in the 3rd quarter (21-6, Rams). An 81-yard Ram drive and two passes gave the Rams three more TDs, and Morris' 33-yard FG followed (45-6, Rams).

At Los Angeles: Interception by Packers led to TD, and Wilson's 44-yard kickoff return sparked a tying TD. A pass, Hornung to Dowler, gave the Packers the lead (14-7, GB). A TD run by Taylor (21-7, GB) and a Currie interception made it Packers at halftime 28-7. Wilson returned the kickoff 85 yards, leading to a TD plunge, and Arnett returned a punt 71 yards for another Ram TD (28-20, GB). Two more scoring drives by the Packers made it 38-20, GB.

At Los Angeles (Opening Day): Several "almost" and "just barely" plays indicated before the finish that it would be a thrilling battle for the fans and a heartbreaker for the loser. In the opening quarter a 23-yard field goal by Pat Summerall gave the Giants an early lead, 3-0. In the second period, Bob Schnelker got behind the Ram secondary to take a Charlie Conerly pass good for 66 yards and a 10-0 lead. Conerly, Schnelker and Frank Gifford teamed for a 66-yard TD drive to make it 17-0, but just before halftime a 54-yard Wade-Shofner pass set up an Ollie Matson TD; 17-7, Giants.

In the third quarter, LoVetere forced a Giant fumble and Richter recovered on the Giant 35, leading to a Ram TD pass, Wade to Marconi (17-14, Giants). On next possession the Rams took the lead on a 43-yard Wade to Shofner TD pass (21-17, Rams). Summerall opened the final quarter with a 14-yard FG to make it 21-20, Rams. Toward game's end, on fourth and eleven, Conerly passed to Schnelker, who tripped and fell but caught the ball while sitting down for a first down, leading to an 18-yard game winning FG by Summerall. In a last moment desperation passing attack, Frank Ryan threw long to Phillips who made a great catch, but a similar long pass was inches long, sliding off Thomas' fingertips and the thriller was over. Final score: 23-21, Giants.

At San Francisco: After going 114 games without a shutout, the Rams never moved closer than the 49ers 29-yard line. The 49ers, capitalizing on a Ram fumble on a kickoff return, took a 10-0 lead before the Rams had run a play. A fumble and a 49er interception brought about two more TDs and two more routine scoring drives mercifully ended the game (34-0, 49ers).

At Los Angeles: The 49ers intercepted a pass and it led to a Tittle-Wilson TD pass (7-0, 49ers). A Ram fumbled punt started a scoring drive for the 49ers (14-0, 49ers) and a fumbled Ram lateral on the Ram 9 brought about a Davis FG (17-0, 49ers). Michaels kicked a 20-yard FG just before halftime (17-3, 49ers). Then a Matson TD plunge capped a 92-yard Ram drive (17-10, 49ers), but Woodson then returned the kickoff 105 yards for a TD (24-10, 49ers). A fourth quarter Ram drive, engineered by Ryan, ended the scoring (24-16), 49ers).

At Los Angeles (Pre-Season): An early interception by Will Sherman stopped a Card threat and started a long Ram march to a Frank Ryan TD on a QB sneak (7-0, Rams). King Hill's passing and John Crow's running keynoted a second quarter Card scoring drive (7-7, tie) but immediately the Rams scored again on Arnett's running and passing and runs by Marconi and Matson and the score was 14-7, Rams, at halftime.

Wade was the Rams' second half field general. Rookies Beams and Osborne teamed up on a vicious tackle and recovered fumble to give the Rams the ball at midfield, and Wade and Arnett combined running and passing to move into pay territory (21-7, Rams). A Jack Morris 26-yard field goal was added just before the end of the third quarter (24-7, Rams). As the final period began, Hill's passing set up his own QB sneak for a TD (24-14, Rams), but a well distributed flurry of Wade passes provided an equalizer on the Rams' next possession (31-14, Rams). Sam Williams then recovered a Card fumble and Morris kicked a 15-yard field goal (34-14, Rams). Card rookie Hunter Enis engineered a 71-yard scoring march, topped by an Enis-Randle 47-yard TD pass, to end the scoring. Final: 34-21, Rams.

At Los Angeles (Pre-Season): Arnett fumbled out of bounds when tackled in the end zone, giving the 'Skins an early lead (2-0, 'Skins). A Burroughs interception gave the Rams possession, leading to a 23-yard TD Wade-Shofner pass (7-2, Rams). Olszewski's running highlighted a 'Skin drive for a second quarter TD (9-7, 'Skins). The Rams drove 83-yards on Wade's passes and Arnett's running (14-9, Rams). Olszewski (running) and LeBaron march (16-14, 'Skins). LeBaron's passing gave the 'Skins a fourth quarter TD (23-14, 'Skins), and Wade retaliated, passing and running to a 55-yard TD march just before the final gun (23-21, 'Skins).
